

Renewing our union action together

In the light of the convention theme, the FIQ delegation decided to renew its union action and to opt for social movement unionism. Delegates stressed that one of the priorities of neoliberal governments is to reduce the power of the unions and that the setbacks of the labour movement will only increase if union organisations do not change their practice and their actions. They thus decided to start reflecting together on how to best operate the transition to social movement unionism.

Leadership

The fourth day of the Convention began with a group interactive activity on the Essence of Leadership. The objectives of this activity were to raise awareness on the traits and importance of a leader by discussing the meaning, characteristics and results of effective leadership.

SISP guest speaker

Dominique Verreault, President of the Alliance du personnel professionnel et technique de la santé et des services sociaux (APTS), spoke to the delegates of the Federation about an important alliance, the Secrétariat intersyndical des services publics (SISP). Indeed, the union organisations which compose the SISP agreed to invite a representative of another SISP member organisation to speak at each of their decision-making meetings.
