The FIQ is proud to launch a brand new publicity campaign. With the theme, “That’s enough. Patient care comes first.”, the purpose of this initiative is to remind the Québec people of the extraordinary work done every day by the nurses, licensed practical nurses, respiratory therapists and perfusionists in Québec.

For this campaign, singer-songwriter-composer Vincent Vallières has partnered with the Federation. “The FIQ is 65,000 people who work with compassion and devotion in conditions that are truly not always easy”, he states in the TV and radio announcements, also available on fiqsante.qc.ca. Vincent Vallières, whose father was a nurse, also stated that the “nurses, licensed practical nurses, respiratory therapists and perfusionists in the FIQ give body and soul to care for us every day”.

Youth Network: Os-Terre-Riz-Thé [Austerity] = lean regime?

The 10th edition of the FIQ Youth Network was held on November 19 and 20 last. About sixty healthcare professionals age 30 and younger met to discuss a topic that is hot right now: austerity. The different activities suggested during this Network allowed the younger generation to share their thoughts about the possible solutions to put together a Québec which reflects their concerns as healthcare professionals, women and citizens. The union’s next generation is more dynamic and mobilized than ever.

Sexual assaults – demanding a commission Have you signed?

The FIQ has signed this petition initiated by the Fédération des femmes du Québec and is inviting its members, their families and their friends to do the same. It is essential that “the National Assembly create a traveling parliamentary commission on sexual assaults in order that society do some profound thinking on the causes, the consequences and preventing sexual assaults to develop state methods to put in place in order to prevent sexual violence, support the victims, promote a process of atonement and make the aggressors accountable”.
